Donahey Expected to Urge Home Rule in Taxation In Message

Columbus, Nov. 24.—It is believed that Governor Donahey in his message to the Ohio legislature, which convenes in January, will propose again the principle of home rule in taxation.

Donahey is known to be a believer in the judgment of the people. When a city, county or school district plans improvements which will involve large expenditures of money, the governor thinks the people should decide whether the improvements justify increased taxes, rather than the little group of executive and administrative officers. Leave it to the people, Donahey said two years ago, rather than increase the limitations on the tax rate. It is not probable his attitude has changed since then.

Interest in taxation problems will be heightened at the coming session if the proposed municipal league, tentatively formed here, does not flake out. Rural members of the legislature, banded together in the "corn-stalk club," admittedly have dominated past general assemblies, doing the lawmaking for cities as well as for villages and rural districts. Now the cities have risen up in arms. They plan a finish fight, and it promises to be an interesting battle. If they can successfully co-operate, some measures along the general line of home rule in taxation may be adopted. If no changes are made in existing statutes, municipal bankruptcy looms in more than one of the larger municipalities.

A bill aiming at a sane provision in Ohio law for the licensing of automobile drivers has been drafted by the Ohio State Automobile association and will be submitted to the legislature. The measure, which has the approval of 88 automobile clubs in the state and, consequently, the backing of more than 150,000 motorists, was primarily the work of Municipal Judge Lee Skeel of Cleveland, who drafted the present uniform state traffic code. It provides for issuance of a license for 60 cents, and designates the secretary of state as the administrative official, with the aid and co-operation of city and county police officers.

To Attack Fee Bill.

The organized clubs, while fostering the bill, will attack, meanwhile, another bill prepared by the Cleveland Safety council, in which $1 fee for licensing and an additional fee of $4 for examination as to fitness, is provided, it was announced. That bill, according to Fred H. Caley, president of the state association and secretary of the Cleveland club, has in it two dangerous elements. If made a law, the safety council measure, he believes, would tax unduly a class of citizens who are made to pay a penalty because they are motorists, and would create a situation whereby the granting of a license to motorists would be made increasingly difficult in order to give profitable work to examiners favored by those having the enforcement of the law in their power.

Secretary A. O. Rodrian of the Columbus Automobile club said: "Automobile clubs of the state are against the gas tax, not because they are averse to providing more money for roads, but because such a tax is unfair and puts the automobile in the nuisance class, along with tobacco, cigarettes and drugs. It is a penalty rather than a tax and certainly is unfair to such an important factor in the commercial life of the state as the automobile has grown to be."

Whether a compulsory automobile liability and property damage proposal will be introduced is not known, but, Rodrian said, if one is introduced, the club will be behind it. He would not say whether the club favored insurance with an old line or mutual company or whether it wanted state insurance, fashioned after the workmen's compensation act.

Clue Unearthed Sunday is Kept Secret—Congregation Death Was By Murder But Defends Pastor—Physician Disputes Suicide.

Columbus, O., Nov. 24.—Following a "hot trail," county authorities and police detectives here today are continuing their joint investigation in an attempt to solve the mystery surrounding the disappearance of Mrs. C. V. Sheatsley whose charred remains are believed to have been found a week ago today in the furnace in the basement of the Bexley Lutheran church parsonage.

County Prosecutor King and other officials probing the mystery, refused to make public any of the circumstances connected with the "hot trail," which, it was announced, was unearthed Sunday. King planned today to question a number of persons, including neighbors of the Sheatsleys, in the home of learning what took place in the Sheatsley home just prior to discovery of the charred remains. Officials working on the case feel that this missing information, if obtained, may bring about the solution of the mystery.

Despite the oft-repeated opinion of Rev. Mr. Sheatsley that his wife committed suicide by crawling into the furnace, his congregation has lined up on the side of the public officials who believe Mrs. Sheatsley was murdered. The congregation unanimously adopted a resolution Sunday embodying a prayer for Divine guidance "that the real culprit in the baffling case will be discovered and brought to justice."

The resolution also, registered the congregation's sympathy for Rev. Mr. Sheatsley and his family, and "our unqualified confidence in the integrity and nobility of character which our pastor has uniformly exhibited among us."

Dr. C. H. Wells, Sheatsley family physician, today declared that Mrs. Sheatsley was never ill a day in her life here, that he "had never treated her for any nervous disorder and that he was inclined to believe she was killed by some unknown person. Dr. Wells disagreed with the opinion of Rev. Mr. Sheatsley that Mrs. Sheatsley was a victim of temporary mental derangement.

Dr. Wells, however, made it plain that he had no adverse criticism to make against Rev. Mr. Sheatsley. "I have known him for 30 years. He is groping in the dark for an explanation of this mystery," said Dr. Wells. He and Rev. Sheatsley were classmates in college. Although Rev. Mr. Sheatsley and his family were expected to return home today from Paris, O., where they have been visiting relatives since the burial there last week of Mrs. Sheatsley's body, an announcement was made here today that Rev. Mr. Sheatsley has postponed his return until next Wednesday.

Conferring with Prosecutor King, Mayor Ludwig of the Bexley suburb, issued an appeal to Bexley residents to rally to the aid of Prosecutor King so that the mystery may be solved for the good of the community.

Concluding an investigation of an uninhabited residence, adjoining the Sheatsley home, police detectives completely discredited the theory that Mrs. Sheatsley might have been murdered by some unknown person who has hidden in the unoccupied house.

INTERNAL REVENUE COLLECTIONS FALL OFF SEVENTY NINE MILLIONS IN FOUR MONTHS

Washington, Nov. 24.—The treasury department announced today that the internal revenue collections from July 1 to October 31, 1924, amounted to $736,167,423 as compared with $815,540,888 for the same period in 1923, a decrease of $79,373,465.

Income tax collections for the same period of 1924 were $430,119,549, compared with $452,387,241 for 1923, a decrease of $22,267,692.

Miscellaneous taxes for 1924 period were $306,047,874, compared with $363,153,646 for the 1923 period, a decrease of $57,105,772. The decreases were due to refunds of the 25 per cent reduction on individual incomes for the year 1923 and the repeal of certain miscellaneous taxes as provided for by the revenue act of 1924.

There was an increase in the collections of tobacco taxes of $6,204,414, the collection from July 1 to October 31, amounting to $120,696,495, as compared with $114,492,090 for the same period in 1923.

Mrs. Harding Lived In Faith Says Pastor At Bier

(Following is text of the sermon preached by Rev. Jesse Swank at the funeral of Mrs. Harding at Marion.)

Marion, O., Nov. 24.—So much has been said and written about the fine, beautiful and useful life of Mrs. Harding that it is needless for me to try in this brief time to say more.

Her love for her husband, her fidelity in the marriage relations, her vision of the greatness of their future and her devotion and self sacrifice to make that vision come true is well known.

One thing, it seems to me, has been neglected, in all these tributes, and that is the most necessary and the most precious in her life—her deep conviction and her profound faith in the great realities of Christianity. The first time I visited her, she related to me the story of her conversion in girlhood and how that experience had only widened and deepened as the years had come and gone. As our friendship increased, and the responsibilities of life became heavier, she found this trust in God essential to enable her to meet the great burdens that her onerous position imposed upon her.

Relating to me the story of her serious illness, while she was mistress of the White House she said as the letters and telegrams came pouring in—each bearing the message "we are praying for your recovery"—the conviction came to her that she was not to die and from that time she fought steadily on with a great faith in Divine Providence until her recovery became assured.

It was in this faith she lived, in this faith she did her work, on this faith, she relieved and found her sure support when her beloved was taken away from her and it was in the possession of this faith that she went home to God.

In the Christian scheme, death is not the end of life, only the opening

COOLIDGE TO URGE STRICT ECONOMY IN CONGRESS MESSAGE

President Now Working On On Document to Be Read Next Week

Washington, Nov. 24.—President Coolidge is at work on his message to congress, which body convenes next week for the short session.

The message, which promises to establish a new record for brevity, will be read in the senate and house by reading clerks, which rarely has happened since Woodrow Wilson revived some 12 years ago the custom of presidents addressing congress directly.

Mr. Coolidge spent considerable time working on the draft of his message last week and expects to have it completed sometime this week.

Little worth while accomplishment can be expected from this dying session of congress, and nowhere is that more keenly realized than at the white house. Any attempt to carry out an ambitious administration program at this time would result only in failure, for this congress that meets a week from today is the same congress that disregarded Coolidge's recommendations and overrode his vetoes. One of the things that will be really stressed in Mr. Coolidge's message, however, will be continued governmental economy.

An election contest before the senate is in the making here. Daniel F. Steck (Dem., Iowa), dissatisfied with the recent recount that pronounced Senator Brookhart (Rep.) re-elected by a slim majority, is laying the groundwork for an appeal to the senate for further examination of the Iowa ballot boxes.

Not the least interesting feature of Steck's case is the fact that his representative and campaign manager is Blair Coan, who became conspicuous as the Republican national committee's agent in the indictment of Senator Wheeler of Montana last spring.

Coan figured in Broke. Coan also figured prominently in the testimony before Brookhart's committee investigating former Attorney General Daugherty. With the same candor he displayed in telling how he went to Montana to "get Wheeler," Coan now explains his championship of Steck's cause. He is eager to have Steck seated, he admits, "in order to be rid of Brookhart, because of the latter's 'insurgency,' and particularly his assailing of Coan's part in the Wheeler case."

The National Industrial conference announces that state and local taxation is assuming dangerous proportions. While the net debt of the federal government is 20 billions larger than before the war, it is being constantly reduced, but state and local governments continue to pile up fresh indebtedness from month to month in an apparently endless fashion, it is charged. A statement issued by the industrial conference says: "The increasing indebtedness of state and local authorities tends to place higher and higher taxes on owners of homes, factories, stores and other real property, which tend to aggravate the maldistribution of the existing tax burden. In the 10 years from 1912 to 1922 the total net indebtedness of state and local governments in the United States increased 128 per cent. It appears from present indications that the amount of bonds sold by state and local authorities in this country in 1924 will exceed the figures of 1921, which was the record year heretofore. In the first 10 months of the present year there has been an increase in long term bonds of $319,000,000 as compared with the same period of 1923, and the board estimates that plans for new financing which received popular approval at the recent election call for additional issues of $500,000,000."

Policeman Shot.

Cleveland, Nov. 24.—Policeman Edward McGuirk is in a hospital with a bullet in his left leg near the knee. McGuirk said he had surprised three men trying to open a door. One of the men, he said, fled at his approach. He backed the others against a wall and was beginning to search them when a series of shots were fired out of a dark corner. One bullet entered his side and tore downward through the thigh and leg.

REPORT CHAPLIN TO MARRY LITA GREY

Los Angeles, Calif., Nov. 24.—Reports that Charles Spencer Chaplin, king of screen comedians was on his way to Mexico to wed Miss Lita Grey, his leading woman, was partially confirmed here today by dispatches from Nogales, Arizona, which said Chaplin was due to arrive there and had made reservations for a trip into Mexico.

Miss Grey and Chaplin have been known to be interested in each other and have been frequently seen in Hollywood cafes together. Denial of the marriage or even the engagement was made by Chaplin.

Nogales, Ariz., Nov. 24.—Charlie Chaplin, comedian of the screen was "due" to arrive here this noon. He is enroute to Guaymas, Sonora, Mexico. Five members of his party arrived here Friday afternoon and left in the evening for Guaymas, where they said they would be joined later by Chaplin. The object of the comedian's visit to Mexico was not disclosed here.

MRS. HARDING BURIED

MAN, RESPONSIBLE FOR DEATH OF FRIEND IN AUTO ACCIDENT, COMMITS SUICIDE

Hamilton, O., Nov. 24.—Louis Simpson, 22, and "Vassie" Combs, 22, residents of Coke Otto, near here, are dead, killed last night when Combs tried to light a cigarette while driving with one hand and lost control of the car, which overturned into a ditch, on the Seven Mile Pike.

Simpson and Vassie Combs were crushed beneath the car. John Combs, brother of the driver, was only slightly injured while Louis Lake also of Coke Otto was thrown clear of the wreck.

While the latter ran for aid, John Combs informed his brother that Simpson had been killed instantly. "And I am to blame!" cried Vassie Combs, as, in spite of being pinned beneath the wreck, he drew a revolver and shot himself just over the heart, death coming before a rescue party arrived.

John Combs attempted to prevent the suicide but was held under the wrecked car in such a manner that

PLAN TO ELIMINATE COAL FAMINES MADE BY BODY OF ENGINEERS

Committee Gives Report After Survey of Fuel Shortage Cases

New York, Nov. 24.—Plans to eliminate famines are outlined in a report made by a committee of the American Engineering council here.

The report as submitted suggests that the principal cities adopt a system of uniform monthly shipments to avert a shortage. The committee recommends that all consumers purchase their coal on an annual contract for yearly requirements, with a provision that the coal be delivered monthly in equal allotments. Consumers are urged to provide storage facilities to meet this.

The report states that the recommendations are based on the finding that the purchase of coal on a monthly delivery basis will enable coal mines to inaugurate and maintain a regular production schedule and make it possible for carriers to plan definitely both schedules and equipment for a uniform movement of coal.

The report continues: "A reduction of the price of coal will be made possible by more regular schedules of production and transportation and by elimination of peak demands in the winter months, when the costs of both production and transportation are the highest. The railroads have more to gain by storing coal than any other class of consumers. They should store their own coal on such a scale and at such times as to obviate the movement of company or non-company producing coal during the period when there is a heavy demand for the transportation of revenue producing freight."

DRY AGENTS SEIZE MUCH PROPERTY

Washington, Nov. 24.—The prohibition bureau reports the seizure of property valued at $616,315 during the month of October. This sum represents the value of 710,442 gallons of spirits, 309,078 gallons of mash and pomace, 259 distilleries, 398 stills, 290 still worms, 3,301 fermenters, 313 automobiles and four boats and launches. Confiscation has taken place of whole distilling plants and many stills have also been seized after they had been removed to places of supposed safety. Still worms were especially difficult of location, the report said, because, owing to their high cost, they are carefully protected and hidden by bootleggers.

MARION'S TRAIL OF MOURNING IS AGAIN REVIVED

Funeral Cortage Follows Route Used Last Year For President

Thousands Call Before the Services—Rites at Church Are Brief

Marion, O., Nov. 24.—Marion's "trail of mourning" came into being again today.

Scores of American flags, each at half mast, in tribute to the wife of the twenty-ninth president of the United States, charted the course over which the body of Warren G. Harding was borne to Marion cemetery some fifteen months ago. Shortly after 2 o'clock this afternoon the former president's widow was carried down that path to rest beside her husband.

Hundreds of persons braved the disagreeable weather today to visit the old fashioned house in Church street, where the body of Florence Kling Harding lay, awaiting the funeral hour. It is estimated 12,000 persons have been admitted within the last twenty-four hours to the home of Mrs. F. J. Longshore, niece of Mrs. Harding, to pay their respects to the woman whose counsel President Harding courted in the trying reconstruction period following the world war.

Everywhere in Marion, where Mrs. Harding grew from girlhood to become the mistress of the White House, were signs of mourning. Windows of business houses were draped in black and white, with a portrait of Mrs. Harding reposing in the folds of the crepe.

The floral offering, representing friends of the Hardings in all parts of the nation, rivaled in Marion only by the display at the bier of President Harding himself. At the foot of the casket lay the huge floral piece sent by President Coolidge.

At 1:30 o'clock the funeral procession left the Longshore home for Epworth Methodist Episcopal church, two blocks away, where Mrs. Harding worshipped from girlhood. Services at the church were brief, in keeping with the wishes of the former mistress of the White House.

Dr. Jesse Swank, pastor of Epworth Church, who conducted the funeral services for President Harding, delivered the sermon, after which the Rev. George M. Landis, pastor of Trinity Baptist Church, where the former president worshipped, offered a prayer. Mrs. Harding's favorite hymn, "The End of a Perfect Day," concluded the church services. The song was rendered by the Columbus, O. glee club, which often sang the song for Mrs. Harding in the White House.

Then the solemn journey to Marion cemetery and to the receiving vault which contains the body of President Harding. Services at the tomb were of the same brief character as those at the church.

After a prayer by Dr. Swank, the body was placed beside that of the former president, where the two will remain until the completion of the Harding Memorial tomb.

Sunday thousands of neighbors and friends passed the bier of Mrs. Harding to pay their last respects. From early morning, when a line formed at the Longshore home here, where the body of the former first lady of the land reposed, a steady stream of people passed in and out. It was a silent, reverent crowd, mostly people who had known the Hardings when they were struggling newspaper folks.

Mrs. Donahey, wife of the governor, attended the funeral, accompanied by five other members of the Columbus chapter of the Daughters of the American Revolution. The late former president's widow was a member of William Hendricks chapter, D. A. R., of Marion.

OIL PROBE WILL BE REOPENED - WALSH

Washington, Nov. 24.—The senatorial oil investigation will be reopened early in the coming session of congress. This was made known on the arrival here of Senator Walsh (Dem., Mont.), acting prosecutor in the Teapot Dome inquiry. Walsh first criticized the manner in which the government presented its case to recover the Elk Hill reserve from Edward L. Doheny in the California federal courts, and then declared the oil inquiry would be resumed. He said the government should have stressed the "alleged illegality of the lease. Future sessions of the committee, he revealed, will be devoted to legislative questions until after the United States supreme court has passed upon the refusal of Harry F. Sinclair, who obtained Teapot Dome, and former Secretary of the Interior Albert B. Fall, to testify in the investigation. If Sinclair and Fall are compelled to give testimony, Walsh said, the inquiry into charges of fraud in the lease of Teapot Dome will be resumed.

Walsh is speaking with his disciples. He is such a small incident in the career of Him who said: "I am the Resurrection and the Life," that he ignores it altogether and simply says to his disciples: "I am going away. I will be busy while I am gone, building regal residences in My Father's house for you. When I have them finished I will

DVOROK'S SONG IS POPUAR NUMBER OF COIR REPERTOIRE

From present indications, it appears that Anton Dvorak's "Goin' Home," will likely be one of the most popular songs numbers offered by the Xenia Choral Society this season, as is the case with the Westminster Choir, of Dayton.

It was noticed during the offerings of the choral society last winter, that "Goin' Home" was the most loudly applauded and most favorably received by the various audiences, which leads members of the choir to believe that such will be again the case this season.

"Goin' Home" is a selection from the New World symphony, written by Dvorak, during a visit to America, and proved the most popular piece offered by the Westminster Choir during the past season.

Under the capable leadership of Carleton McHenry, assistant director and member of the Westminster Choir, of Dayton, the choral society is showing the results of hard practice and untiring effort and the concert which it will present, jointly with the Urbana Choral Society in this city a week before Christmas, should rival even the great Westminster Choir in splendor.

The Christmas program will be held in the First Methodist Episcopal church.

The plaintiff claims that the defendant is willing to pay the assessment but its legality has been questioned by a state examiner.

The plaintiff charges that all the legal procedure in connection with the improvement of Main Street in Cedarville Village from Massie Creek Bridge to the North Corporation line was carried out.

The plaintiff also claims that the assessment for the improvement was to be paid in nine installments beginning in December, 1923, with the first installment of $265.13.

This was not paid the petition states because of the question brought up by the state examiner.

GREENE IN OHIO'S CRN CANNING BELT ORGANIZATION SAYS

Columbus, O., Nov. 24.—Special—Ohio has a corn-canning belt, according to Arthur Hamilton of Lebanon, president of the Ohio Cannery Association, which will hold its annual meeting in this city, December 9 and 10.

It lies in southwestern Ohio and embraces Franklin, Pickaway, Ross, Fayette, Highland, Clinton, Warren, Greene, Madison, Champaign and Logan counties. A little corn is canned in other parts of the state but nearly all of it is put up in this section.

"It is necessary," said Mr. Hamilton today, "to have the canning plants close to the fields in order that the corn may be canned when it is just at the right stage of maturity. Canned goods are merely the raw products with the addition of salt and other necessary ingredients, cooked and sealed in airtight cans. Sterilization by heat such as is provided in a commercial canning plant makes preservatives unnecessary. Because of this, canned goods are extremely healthful as well as economical."

Canners pay many thousands of dollars to growers of sweet corn in this section every season, Mr. Hamilton said.

Officers of the Ohio Cannery Association are:

A wonderful treat . . . for the Greeks

THE Olympic Games were more than a matter of athletic competition for the ancient Greeks. They were occasions when merchants from all over the world assembled to tempt them with their wares.

This was a wonderful treat for the Greeks. In their little city-states they had no opportunity to satisfy their individual tastes. There was practically no variety, even in articles of every-day use. The accumulation of goods presented to them at every Olympiad was something well worth the four years' waiting.

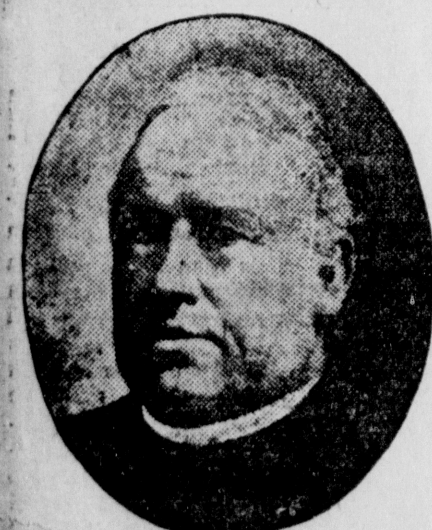

What would they think of our good fortune—who every morning and every evening that presented at our own doors a collection of goods no Greek could have dreamed of? Advertisements in our papers spread before us the products of every civilization—from every country, from their fields, from their factories, from their laboratories.

At your ease you can decide what you care most about, compare values, check the different statements, and make your final selections.

Read the advertisements. They bring to you the offers of countless things that make life easier, happier, more interesting.

OSBORN AND FAIRFIELD REACH PEACEFUL SETTLEMENT OF ANNEXATION CONTROVERSY

Osborn and Fairfield old feudists kissed and made up at the conclusion of a hearing before the County Commissioners Monday morning, when they mutually agreed to divide practically half and half, certain territory in Bath township, all of which each had previously petitioned for permission to annex.

The territory involved includes slightly more than 100 acres of Bath Township farmland, lying adjacent to and between the two villages. Under the terms of the agreement, each is empowered to annex about fifty acres of the territory and under the agreement the right of way of the electric railway between Dayton and Springfield, will be the boundary line between the two villages.

The only stumbling block now in the proceedings to annex, is a protest filed by Louis F. Miller, who owns slightly more than five acres of land in the annexed territory adjacent to Fairfield. His objection was filed at the hearing by his attorney, C. L. Darlington, who gave notice, following an amicable settlement, to carry the protest on appeal to Common Pleas Court.

The difficulties which reached a peaceful consummation Monday, began several months ago when Osborn petitioned to annex practically all the territory lying between that village and Fairfield. Fairfield immediately filed a petition with the commissioners for permission to annex the same territory. The original hearings were postponed to be held the same day.

In the meantime the villages got together on the mutual agreement, each to abandon half of the territory in favor of the other. Only a few citizens of the interested villages were on hand for the hearing Monday, the hearing being handled through their attorneys, Morris D. Rice for Osborn and J. A. Finney, Xenia, for Fairfield. According to the grant made by the commissioners, Osborn will annex territory east of the traction line, amounting to about fifty acres and Fairfield will get all the territory west of the traction line, amounting to about fifty acres.

Miller made his objection on several grounds, including one charge that the property to be annexed was too large in consideration of the normal anticipated growth of either village.

PICTURE IS DRAPED

Marion, O., Nov. 24 — Long strands of wide black ribbon draped a photograph of Mrs. Harding in the front window of the business offices at the Marion Star, today. Harding.

In the days when Mrs. Harding was a figure in the business office, Mr. Harding was active editor of the Star. In addition to heading the editorial staff, he supervised the mechanical departments. He supervised the mechanical departments.

SPECIAL NEWSPAPER SERVICE

When Gus Karger died in Washington a few days ago President Coolidge spoke of him as the trusted friend and helpful counsellor of many public men. The full truth of that broad statement was well known to the friends of Karger in Washington and elsewhere. Similar statements were made of Jim Faulkner when death claimed him last year. A few years ago they were made of Ben Allen and they could be made of many others.

Karger had been Washington correspondent of The Cincinnati Times-Star for nearly a score of years. Faulkner had represented The Cincinnati Enquirer in Columbus for three decades. Ben Allen had been in Columbus and Washington for The Cleveland Plain Dealer for more than a dozen years. Each was an unusual man, with qualities that inspire confidence and bring intimate friendships. In their work they mixed with the public and had a close-up view and understanding of official life. They were men who never would abuse a confidence, never refuse to do a public service if called on, men who knew official politics and policies and were intimately informed of public sentiment, in position to see and know the right and tactful course, courageous and willing to lend a hand.

They were called on for service in public affairs many times, called on for counsel, knew many of the governmental policies and plans long before they were made public, helped frame many policies and gave to that task their best thought and judgment. That is a view of the work of newspaper men in important positions about state and national capitals which the public gets only at intervals, and then only a passing glance. Confidence given in that way was respected, the man competent to give helpful counsel was big enough never to speak of what he had done; if he had served a friend and contributed to public service he was content, happy but silent.

In Washington close friendships have been developed between the man in the White House and newspaper men there. Confidential relations have been established that were helpful to both and of importance to the public many times, although the public never knew of the service done. Gus Karger was the intimate personal and political friend of four presidents, trusted by them for many important undertakings, faithful to every trust, loyal and sincere. When called from his office he gave the best services of which he was capable, completed the task and went back to his work of writing the news. The same could be said in full truth of Jim Faulkner and Ben Allen and a score of other men in their line of work. State capitals all over the nation could supply similar stories, all true. Here in Ohio, newspaper men from Washington have visited many times in recent years when on special missions for the president of the United States. Even President Wilson, austere and secretive as he was by nature, had his newspaper friends to whom he gave large confidence.

It is one of the treasured possessions of the newspaper men that the national capital that men trusted have shown themselves worthy, that men asked to lend aid have been able to do so actively, that men have helped in undertakings large and small, served their employers, been true to their readers and have given patriotic service to the nation. The statement made of the president about Gus Karger was true, a fact well known to many people in Washington, Columbus and other places. The credit given him had been earned, just as similar credit has been earned by many of his associates.—From Ohio State Journal.

"In Janet came, her brother Do!" there as ten years old and, oh, so wise! To sure the house was in despair, "Ben" were no fairies anywhere, "Ben" ceased to croon her lullabies. Mrs. age had come and swept away lovely charm of Christmas day. Peter Rabbit, we were done, sell my and Mopsy long were gone, Mr. wooden horse he rode upon Rich. Mother Goose had disappeared. Mrs. he had turned to rougher play, we had lost our Christmas day.

could not interest him then a tales of goblins, pixies, elves, wanted yarns of fighting men, books which Cooper used to pen and found them standing on my shelves. On little Janet came to stay brought us back our Christmas day. Have our Santa Claus once more, again we have our Christmas tree, now just behind my library door, rag doll lies upon the floor, And painted blocks marked A. B. MAKE YOUR ACCOUNTS TELL THE REAL STORY

Resolved: There will be no miscellaneous column in our household account book.

Every penny you spend should contribute definitely toward some angle of living. Find out what your money brings you before you spend. And once you have spent, set the money down in the proper column. Mrs. Jones paid five dollars to have her kitchen sink raised to a proper height—a raise from the hopeless 30 inches to the comfortable 38 inches she needed. When she attempted to put the money in her account book she was puzzled. Surely getting the kitchen sink raised wasn't shelter, and yet it wasn't food. It couldn't be repair, for the sink was good as new—it was only its location that was wrong. It was easy to dismiss the clothing column, for one does not wear a kitchen sink, but the advancement column caused her to ponder for certainly the sink had been advanced if the bank account hadn't. But maybe after all it was a luxury—the feel of Mrs. Jones' rested back after a few days' use of the elevated sink made her quite content to let the item stay in the luxury column. It wasn't until after some months that Mrs. Jones suddenly remembered the upkeep column under shelter and the sink raising item was put where it belonged all the time. A miscellaneous column allows slovenly thinking about your financial affairs. Think straight about your spending and you will have more money for investment.

A drill contest between Turner Lodge, No. 414, of Osborn, and the Tabor Lodge, No. 315, of Xenia, was won by the Xenia Lodge which scored 685 out of a possible 730 points for a percentage of 93.83.

Wednesday night the "Xenia Drytown" bowling team will play the Dayton Ivanhoe, probably the best five in the Gem City. Wednesday is also the night for the giving away of the fifteen pound turkey, which is to go to the man holding the highest score. Charles Thornhill now has a score of 224 points and will probably eat free turkey on Thanksgiving day.

Dr. Reed Madden left Monday evening for Chanute, Kansas, where he will spend a week on a business trip. Xenia High Schools' football team will have Springfield as its Thanksgiving day opponent at High School Athletic Field.

Menu: Celery, Tomato Bisque, Roast Stuffed Turkey, Brown Gravy, Glazed Sweet Potatoes, White Potato Cake, Boiled Onions, Cranberry Jelly, Lettuce with Russian Dressing, Pumpkin Pie, Mince Pie, Assorted Fruits, Nuts and Coffee. (This menu will also appear Wednesday, but I give it here so that the housekeeper may plan for it in advance.)

Every cook book gives recipes for making tomato bisque, for glazing sweet potatoes, boiling onions and making cranberry jelly, mince and pumpkin pies. Therefore I am going to devote today's chat to cooking the turkey, which I no doubt do in a slightly different way from the conventional cook-book methods.

How I Roast Turkey: Have your butcher dress and clean a ten-pound cock turkey. When you get it home stuff it with the following:

Turkey Stuffing: Four cups of cracker crumbs, one cup of melted butter, one teaspoon of sage, two beaten eggs, one teaspoon of salt, one-eighth teaspoon of black pepper, one and one-half cups of scalded sweet milk and hot water. Add the seasoning to the cracker crumbs, then moisten by stirring in the hot milk and water in which the turkey has been melted. Add the eggs, mix well, and stuff the crop with it. If you have any left over, use it in the back of the turkey. Fill the rest of the back with the following: Potato Stuffing: Mash eight large, hot, boiled potatoes and add to them one-half cup of melted butter, one cup of sweet cream, three beaten eggs, two large raw onions finely chopped, one teaspoon of salt and a pinch of pepper, beat well before using to stuff the bird.

You have now stuffed the turkey. Place it on its side on a rack in the dripping pan, rub its entire surface with salt, then brush its breast, wings and legs with one-half cup of butter softened and mixed with one-third cup of flour. Dredge pan-bottom with more flour, slip the pan into a hot oven, and when the flour on the bird begins to brown add two cups of boiling water. Roast for three hours, basting every 15 minutes with a mixture of one cupful of boiling water and one-half cup of melted butter. During the last hour, baste with the pan-liquid instead of this. If the bird browns too rapidly cover it with brown paper.

Many women do not have the extra white potato on the table when they use the potato stuffing. If you wish both simply double above recipe for potato turkey stuffing but, instead of using all in the bird put one-half of it in a mound on a pan and bake till brown (one-half hour) in a hot oven.

Today's Talks

DO I PRACTICE WHAT I PREACH?

I never read a great or thrilling thought or expression but that I wonder about the urge in the man's mind and heart who wrote it.

I wonder if people, as a rule, are as big as they think.

I know that they are not. I know that what I write is sincere and a part of me, but I know that I fall more times than I dare tell in living the life I desire to live.

My great desire is to let free the biggest and most generous thoughts I possess because I know there are so many people in this world who may read what I write who are so much stronger than I. And so the good impulse will live anew in strange and thrilling fashion in a better life than mine.

That is the inspiration that keeps these unpretentious Talks alive.

I am just an everyday man desiring for others what I have so often failed to bring about in my own life. I want people to know that I am akin to them. My expression is but the hope of the world, sometimes very feeble, at other times flaming in its desire to rise and achieve.

Stevenson once wrote: "The soul asks honor and not fame; to be upright, not to be successful; to be good, not prosperous; to be essentially, not outwardly, respectable."

These little contributions depend, more than anything else, on the extent to which they stir and arouse and scatter their inspiration seed thoughts in ground that is fertile for the seed of them, rather than that they have come from a source that pretends to anything like perfection. One thing, the responsibility for the expression of these simple Talks is a sacred trust.

It's what we strive to be that means most. It's the number of times we get up that counts, not the number of times we fall.

AUTOMOBILE CLUB WILL RENT ROOM FOR TAG DISTRIBUTION

Dirver Belden secretary of the Greene County Automobile Club, was officially notified of his appointment as local auto license registrar for 1925 by Thad Brown, secretary of state, Saturday. Mr. Belden, succeeds Elbert Babb, as registrar.

No definite date has been announced for the distribution of the 1925 auto licenses, but it is not thought probable that they will be given out before the first of the year, due to the tardiness of auto owners in securing the tags during the past year.

Anticipating a rush for the tags, the auto club is preparing to lease an extra room for their distribution and with the office rooms of the club available for the same purpose, it is believed that the regular fee of ten cents will be charged in addition to the license fee to take care of the extra expense.

Elbert Babb, the retiring registrar has announced that all tags for 1924 have been disposed of, and any further orders for the tags will be taken care of by the auto club.

The new tags will be yellow and black in color, black figures and a yellow background it was said. The 1924 tags were blue and white.

The Ford, running west on Main Street, and driven by Lamon Atherton, 639 Superior Avenue, Dayton, smashed into the bus driven by George Esterline, Osborn, who was driving north on Detroit Street. The bus is owned by the Wabash Cement Company of Osborn.

The front end of the Ford was badly smashed, both lights, wheels and fenders being badly damaged. With the exception of a broken tail light, the bus was not damaged.

Attacked by Fish; Fatally Hurt.

FIRE DOES DAMAGE AT WRIGHT FIELD

Fire, which started in the shipping department at Wilbur Wright field Saturday night, threatened the main headquarters building before it could be placed under control.

The blaze was discovered about 10 o'clock by a guard on duty in the building. He immediately warned Mark E. Sherman, operator on duty, who spread the alarm. The fire department and every available man on the field turned out to fight the fire.

Flames were well under headway when discovered. The water damage is thought to be nearly as great as that caused by the blaze. An investigation pointed to spontaneous combustion as the probable cause.

FINDS PICTURE OF FRIEND IN PAPER

While glancing over the "Camera News" page of The Gazette and The Republican, Saturday evening, Mrs. James M. Carper, North Galloway St., was attracted by the picture of a familiar face.

The picture was that of Mrs. Harris W. Huehl, widow of a millionaire Chicago architect, a close friend of Mrs. Carper's for a number of years, who was saved from a group of blackmailers by the alertness of Chicago police, recently. Two suspects are under arrest as members of a gang that operated much like Richard Loeb and Nathan Leopold, Jr., slayers of Bobby Franks, with typed death threats and taxi drivers as emissaries.

Mrs. Huehl and Mrs. Carper have been close friends for many years. Mrs. Huehl's nieces, the Misses Alice and Linda Muller, of Chicago, have visited in the Carper home many times. Miss Alice Muller is expected to arrive for a visit with Mr. and Mrs. Carper soon.

DAVIS DEFEATED BY ROAD PROGRAM SAYS CONGRESSMAN BRAND

Ohio is well abreast of the other states of the Union in the construction and maintenance of her trunk roads, and is gradually adopting a sensible attitude of determining the right kind of road to be built by determining the traffic to be carried on that road. The idea of limiting our construction to the extensive roads was a mistake from the beginning and the policy kept a lot of good people in the mud," according to Charles Brand, Urbana.

The last Republican legislature corrected the policy and made state aid applicable to all types of roads, thereby lining up road policy in Ohio with the national policy of building that kind of road the traffic demands. We need more of the extensive type of roads in Ohio than in the average state because we have more large cities in this state than are in another state in the Union. We have seven cities whose population exceeds one hundred thousand people and no other state has that number of cities exceeding that size. The traffic between these cities makes extensive road construction necessary, but the plan in Ohio of securing the money to pay for such roads was only unfair but obsolete and carried almost universally through the legislature.

The people who use the roads would contribute in fair proportion to the cost of their construction and maintenance and the only way to accomplish this fair solution is for all people of the state to pay for construction and maintenance of the state trunk roads out of the state treasury. The road situation in Ohio continues to hold the balance of power between a Governor for the state. Since the Davis administration in 1921 offered the farmers and the smaller cities with everlasting debt to build roads at an average cost of $43,000 per mile for the benefit of the towns who desired the roads. The farmers were called upon to pay two-thirds of the expense while furnishing a small part of the traffic.

When 1922 when Carl Thompson was a Republican candidate, I told those who had authority that a definite policy as to roads was necessary, if success was to be achieved; but instead the Davis road administration was endorsed. Thompson was defeated. Mr. Brand of the spring of 1924 I publicly said that the Republican party in Ohio must adopt the building and maintenance of the trunk lines out of the public treasury instead of collecting the money from the farmers and the towns. The road through which the roads run, failed predicted defeat at the polls if the solution was not adopted as a part of the party platform.

He has the platform committee turned to my definite proposition and Mr. Brand a meaningless indefinite promise to reduce the farmers' road taxes. Again we lost the Governorship and I now predict that we will continue to lose until the Republican party gets right on the road in Ohio.

Has farmers and the small counties are paying an unfair share of the road bills, and as they pay they also deposit their ballots against Mr. Brand which they blame for the highway.

needed a member of the Roads Commission of the House, I have had occasion to study roads from a national viewpoint, and I find that in thirty of the states of the Union the entire cost of the trunk lines is paid for by the state. I find that the big end of the highway originates in the cities and the trunk lines are not extra. I find that the big end of the highway originates in the cities and the trunk lines are not extra. ### HERE AND THERE

Captain Alfred W. Call, former master of the steamship Boston, which collided off Point Judith July 21 with the tanker Swiftarrow, with a loss of four lives, lost his appeal at Boston from the ruling which resulted in the revocation of his license.

Ford Motor company has acquired the Red Bird lead mine in the Salmon river district of Idaho, about 90 miles from Mackay.

Nickel Plate railroad's October report to the interstate commerce commission shows an increase of $642,690 in net railway operating income over the corresponding month last year.

Gun Was Loaded. Cincinnati, Nov. 24.—Helen Von Holle, 9, of Cheviot, was accidentally shot and killed at her home by Thomas Robinson, 18. The boy pulled the trigger of a small caliber rifle just after he had borrowed it from the child's father. None of the members of the Von Holle family knew the gun was loaded, it was stated.

TAGGART TARGET OF PRACITCAL JOKER

Thomas Taggart, French Lick, Ind., well known Democratic political leader, sportsman, and former Xenian, was one of the victims recently of a practical joke.

Richard Delafield, present owner of Etawah, 2:03, racing horse, claims that some practical joker, representing himself as Thomas Taggart, called at his office, made an offer for Etawah, which was accepted and left, stating he would return with a check.

When he failed to return, Mr. Delafield called French Lick by telephone and talked to Mr. Taggart who said he had not been to New York and knew nothing of the offer for the horse.

SAGE TEA TURNS GRAY HAIR DARK

It's Grandmother's Recipe To Bring Back Color and Lustre To Hair.

That beautiful, even shade of dark, glossy hair can only be had by brewing a mixture of Sage Tea and Sulphur. Your hair is your charm. It makes or mars the face. When it fades, turns gray or streaked, just an application or two of Sage and Sulphur enhances its appearance a hundredfold.

Don't bother to prepare the mixture; you can get this famous old recipe improved by the addition of other ingredients at a small cost, all ready for use. It is called Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur Compound. This can always be depended upon to bring back the natural color and lustre of your hair.

Everybody uses "Wyeth's" Sage and Sulphur Compound now because it darkens so naturally and evenly that nobody can tell it has been applied. You simply dampen a sponge or soft brush with it and draw this through the hair, taking one small strand at a time; by morning the gray hair has disappeared, and after another application it becomes beautifully dark and appears glossy and lustrous. adv

PASSING GAME IN LAST SECONDS OF PLAY WINS FOR IMPERIALS HERE SUNDAY 13 TO 7

By L. J. Wones.

A neat pass from Stephens to P. Fuller, in the closing minutes of play brought about another win for the Imperials football team Sunday afternoon at Washington park when they defeated the West Alexandria Ex-Hi team by a 13 to 7 score.

The game was another of the sensational type resembling that of two weeks ago when the locals defeated the Eastwood Merchants. The entire Imperial team played bangup ball. In the first half the locals play was not up to standard and fumbles were frequent while several times the backs were given poor interference. Starting the second half the locals uncorked a brand of ball that was pleasing to see, making ten first downs while the invaders were held to three.

The West Alexandria bunch lived up to advance notices but its touchdown of the fluke variety, coming about as a result of a fumbled ball. They outplayed the local team in the first half, Walker, left half, was the big ground gained for the losers. He also intercepted two of the Imperials passes. Seekamp and Saylor also played well and Hamilton and Hamm sparked on the line.

Fuller was the big ground gainer for the winners, getting away with several nice runs. He also caught three forward passes one resulting in a score. Stephens ran the team well at quarter and made a nice eighteen yard run while his sneaks also gained. Leahy and Foley did some real line bucking. The former tore off gains from two to six yards every time he juggled the oval. Foley was in the thick of the fight and he made two nice runs once going off tackle for fifteen while another time he made seven. He also made substantial gains around the ends.

Purdum and Cowan played well at the ends the first named grabbing two passes while Cowan also nabbed one. Houk and Borden at the tackles, Bales and Beals at the guards and Tullis at center did fine work throughout. F. Borden made some nice holes for the backs while Tullis also opened up the visitor's forward wall.

Neither team could do much in the first quarter but in the second, after Myers punted to Stephens on the thirty one, Fuller ripped off thirty one yards off tackle. The Imperials were then penalized fifteen yards for clipping. A pass failed while Walker intercepted Stephens' pass on the next play. Saylor made two and Xenia was penalized fifteen yards for tripping. Seekamp was stopped without a gain while Saylor was thrown for a one yard loss. Myers attempted to drop kick which failed and it was Xenia's ball on the twenty. A pass failed while Leahy lost eight yards on next play. Fuller then kicked to Myers on the fifty. Walker failed to gain while an offside penalty gave the West Alex bunch a first down. The locals held them for downs and Myers punted to Fuller on the thirty one. Stephens attempted a sneak and he was tackled hard the ball falling from his grasp and Jordan happened on the scene and scooped it up and sprinted about thirty yards for a touchdown. Walker made the extra point by a place kick.

Walker then kicked off to Cowan who was downed on the twenty-five. Leahy made three and Foley one while Fuller made nineteen and first down. A pass, Stephens to Leahy, gained about thirty-eight yards. Another pass was incomplete. Fuller then fumbled and Benson recovered. Saylor made four, Walker five and Saylor was stopped without gain. Myers booted to the eight yard line from where Fuller punted out of danger to the thirty-two. Walker made as the quarter ended.

Fuller kicked off to Saylor to open the second half and he returned to the nineteen. The Imperials field for downs and Myers punted to Fuller. Fuller made fourteen around left end. A pass, Stephens to Purdom gained thirty-one yards. Fuller lost two yards but Foley made seven and Fuller made it first down the ball being about a half foot from the goal line. A wedge play was then used and Stephens went over for a touchdown amid great cheering and a tangle of football players. Fuller's dropkick was good, tying the score at seven all.

Fuller then kicked off to Saylor. The visitors made a first down by the aid of line plunges of Saylor and Seekamp. The locals held for downs and blocked Myers' punt but Hamm recovered for West Alex. A pass failed while another leave, Myers to Walker, gained nine yards. Walker made it first down. The visitors then lost the ball on downs while the Imperials were also held for downs and Fuller punted to Myers on the forty-one. Walker made four then one and Saylor made it first down. Fuller then intercepted Myers' pass. Foley made fifteen yards off tackle as the third quarter terminated.

Foley and Fuller made it first down. Fuller made three, Stephens six, and Leahy four and first down. Leahy made two more, Foley three and Fuller one. Fuller attempted a dropkick which went wide of the goal. The ball going to West Alexandria on the twenty.

Walker made one, Seekamp two but Saylor failed to gain and Myers punted to Tullis who made a nice return to the forty-two, dragging several West Alex players with him. Two passes were incomplete but a third, Stephens to Purdom, gained eleven yards. Another leave went wild while Walker intercepted the next one. Myers kicked to Leahy. Stephens circled left end for an eighteen yard gain. Four passes were incomplete and the ball went to the visitors on downs. Myers punted out of danger to Stephens on the forty. A pass, Stephens to Fuller, gained thirteen yards while a penalty for tripping gave the locals fifteen more yards and first down. With scarcely forty seconds left to play the locals decided to try another pass which worked, Stephens tossing the pigskin to Fuller, who scored. Fuller attempted to circle end for the extra point but failed as the game ended.

Next Sunday at Washington Park the Imperials will battle the East Side A. C. for the city championship. The East Siders will have several Wilberforce luminaries in their lineup and a hard fought game is expected.

The last great stand was enough however and Wilmington nosed out a 6 to 0 win. One chance remains to Central to redress itself in the eyes of its loyal supporters when Washington C. H. is Thanksgiving Day at Washington and dope sheets concede Xenia least an even chance to annex it first and last game of one of most disappointing years in history. The slogan now appears to be "Wait until next year, then v show 'em."

CENTRAL GRIDDERS GET LAST CHANCE FOR VICTORY THURSDAY

Central High Schools' football campaign of 1924, lethargic in the extreme from the fans' point of view, will come to a conclusion Thanksgiving Day afternoon, Thursday, when the swan song will be sung with many discordant notes marking the vocal selection.

Spasmodic at intervals, the Blue and White gridiron machine in the latter weeks of the campaign appeared to come to life and in holding the powerful Wilmington eleven to one touchdown last week on a field that resembled a sea of mud, and offered some consolation to the victory-hungry Central partisans.

Stepping onto Piqua's football field, the Ballantynmen received a stunning defeat in their opening encounter of the 1924 season. Following this setback, Central entertained Middletown at Cox Memorial Athletic Field in the first home game of the season, and after being outplayed by the boiler makers forfeited the game 1 to 0 following a dispute with the officials late in the game.

Undaunted by two defeats, Central boosters seemed to say, "They have not hit their stride yet," but they will come through in the next game with Greenville. Seven days later, Greenville invaded Greene County, and carried away a victory by an even bigger score than that rolled up by Piqua. Springfield's battering team was the next foe, and Xenia was unable to extend its opponent although it succeeded in registering its first touchdown of the 1924 season, the previous score against Middletown not counting.

Little complaint was registered after the Springfield fracas, but at last, bewhiskered and shop worn, failed to soothe the ruffled feelings of Central adherents who had expected a win over the up state tribe.

Next in line came the Troy game, and despite the 18 to 0 defeat, no excuses were offered and no asked. Then came the traditions scrap with Greenville. Beaten by Central teams for the past five years, Greenville was considered an easy opponent then those that made up the first part of an unusually hard schedule.

Central came to life, in this game but Greenville proved that this is a year when the dope bucks is receiving many and numerous, hard boots, and turned in an 18 to 0 victory, while Xenia was scoring its first touchdown ever made by a Blue and White eleven on Cox Memorial Athletic Field.

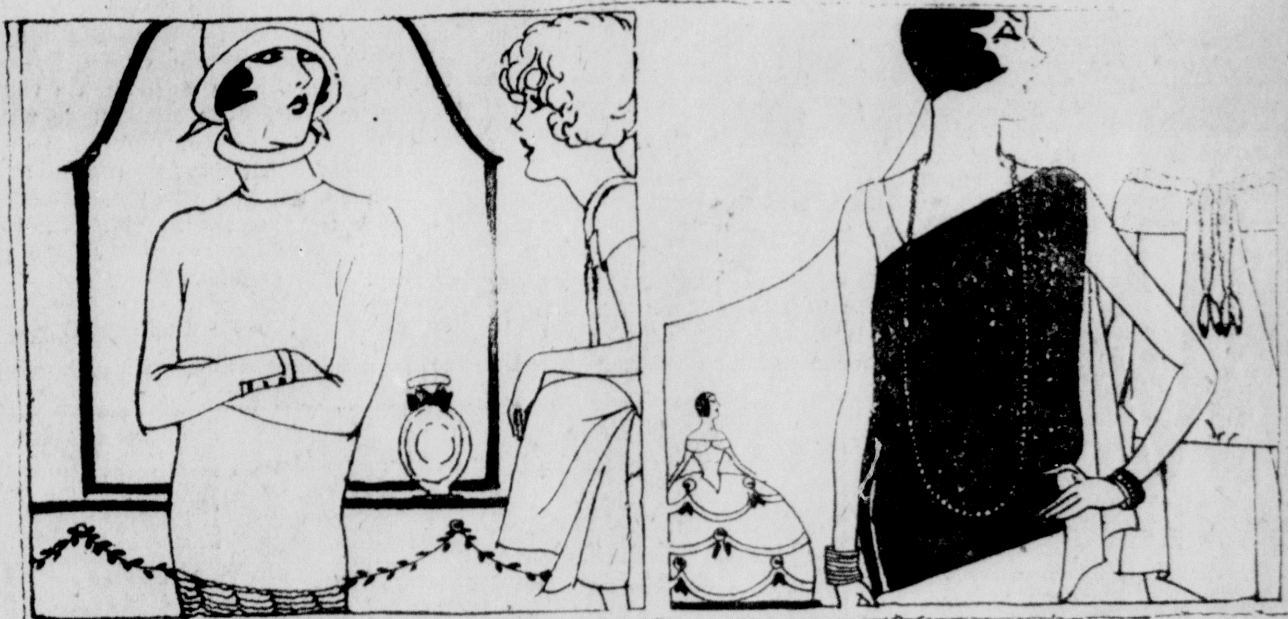

Xenia showed unexpected strength in the Roosevelt encounter and baring the aerial game, played it Teddy Bears off their feet until the pistol sounded ending the game 6 to 0 to no avail, and Central was forced to accept the short end of a 19 to 0 count in the final home affair of the season.

The Wilmington game was a revelation in the estimation of Central partisans, and instead of the comparatively weak aggregation that Wilmington had expected to meet, eleven fighting players slipped and squaled through the mud and water threatened to give the Chit County warriors the surprise of their lives.

The last great stand was enough however and Wilmington nosed out a 6 to 0 win. One chance remains to Central to redress itself in the eyes of its loyal supporters when Washington C. H. is Thanksgiving Day at Washington and dope sheets concede Xenia least an even chance to annex it first and last game of one of most disappointing years in history. The slogan now appears to be "Wait until next year, then v show 'em."

MODISH MITZI—Who Shall Decide When Experts Disagree

By Jay V. J.

"Styles are growing simpler and simpler," says Mitzi firmly, and she poses in a Napoleonic attitude to impress Polly with the merits of her new turtle neck knit dress. Of course it is the very latest neckline of all—what's more they both know it.

Continuing her exposition, Mitzi dons her newest evening gown—than which nothing simpler has come out of Paris. The skirt wraps around and falls in folds on the right side. There is no trimming of any sort, only the contrast of two materials and colors.

"On the contrary," says Polly, "styles are growing more elaborate," and to prove her own assertion she points with pride to the cuffs and collar of her black velvet frock. They are of silk mousseline trimmed with metal lace and the hem is edged with the lace too.

Who ever saw a daintier bit of frivolity than this evening gown of creamy taffeta which has a front of blue chiffon velvet embroidered with pearls? Speaking for ourselves we have no decision to offer.

BOWLING GREEN 11 BEATS CEDARVILLE 34 TO 0 SATURDAY

KEEP WATER METERS FROM FREEZING SAYS CITY AUDITOR ZELL

A warning issued Saturday by T. H. Zell, city auditor, cautions everyone owning water meters to protect them against the cold weather. Approximately seventy-five to one hundred water meters are called on by the attention of officials of the water department every year, according to Mr. Zell.

"Frozen meters are a bother to us and to the householders," said Mr. Zell. "The city charges them for meters damaged in this way, and a meter is practically ruined once it has been frozen."

Natural Care should always be taken in keeping the meter in a warm place, and as they are generally installed in the cellar, householders are warned to take care that glass is always kept in the cellar windows, the windows kept closed, and the cold air shut out.

BRINGING UP FATHER

The Truant Soul

By Victor Rousseau

Lancaster and the secretary were in Myers' room. The door was open. Joan heard a cork fly with a bang, and the gurgle of the champagne in glasses. Their voices were raised high, and there came the sound of a scuffle.

"Sit down!" the secretary was crying. "Do you want to be a fool and spoil everything? Leave her alone until tomorrow."

"I'm d—d if I do!" cried Lancaster. "Wait a minute! Listen to me! You agreed to come back here and put her out. Why don't you do it now?"

Lancaster laughed coarsely. "Because she's too d—n pretty, Myers," he answered.

"It's the drink in you. She isn't better-looking than any average woman in Avonmouth. See here, are you going to bust up the game or are you not?"

"I'll show you!" shouted Lancaster, breaking from Myers' grasp and rushing from the room.

He met the women at the foot of the stairs. His face was flushed, his hair disordered, his manner maniacal. "You sneak, what are you butting into this show for?" he demanded of Mrs. Fraser.

The matron, cowed by his violence, trembled. She tried to pull Joan toward her room; then caught her eye and made the slightest gesture indicative of shooting. Lancaster raised his first threateningly.

The matron did not lift a finger to defend herself. She stood quite calmly, awaiting the expected blow; perhaps it was some atavistic trait inherited through generations of poor ancestors; and yet, servile although it might have been, the look on the woman's face was almost heroic.

The man let his fist fall; he seized the matron by the shoulders and pushed her back into her room. He turned the key in the lock and put it in his pocket.

"That's settled, I reckon," he said with satisfaction.

Joan's hand went into her pocket. Her fingers closed about the revolver handle. But at that moment the secretary, who had come out of his room, went up to Lancaster.

"See here, now," he began to remonstrate, "have a little sense, doctor. If you're bent on busting everything up, you and I part company."

The other turned on him with so menacing a gesture that Myers flung up his hands in despair and went back into his room. Joan stood facing the doctor alone. At that moment her decision was nearly ripened, and she felt conscious of no fear of him at all.

If he attempted violence she knew what she would do. But he did not lay hands on her. He stood leaning against the newel post at the foot of the stairs, watching her face.

Joan was searching his eyes for the least sign of the man she had known, and he broke off, scowling and wincing under her stare. Above his words was the sound of the beating rain, the lashing wind; and from within the matron's room Joan heard Mrs. Fraser crying in prayer:

"O Lord, save her!" she wailed. "Save that girl this night! O Lord, from the devil! Save her! Save her, O Lord!"

"Maybe I got you wrong," continued the doctor. "But if I did, I ask you, who's to blame? Didn't you come to me at my house in Avonmouth and ask for your job back? Weren't you as sweet as sugar when you wanted something out of me? And didn't you agree to come up here to work for me? Well, what's the inference, then? You can have your job back if you want it. But I can do better by you than that. You're too pretty for a nurse's job, and I told you so that day you turned on me in the theater like a wildcat. Now, then! It's up to you! Your move, partner!"

Joan tried to push past him, but he remained at the foot of the stairs, blocking her way.

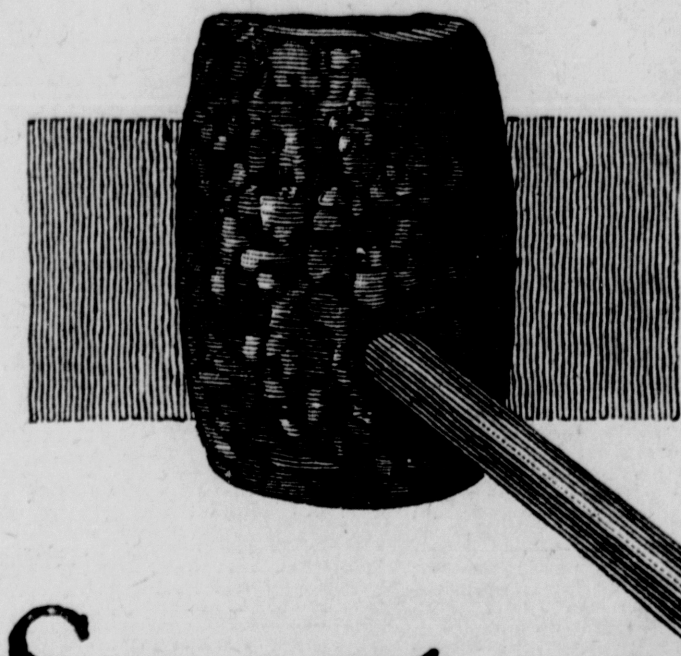

"Let me pass, please!" she cried. "I'm going to leave the institute at once."

"Without your hat?" he sneered. "Let me pass at once!"

"Well, I reckon I can't stop you," he rejoined. "Just one word more, though. Do you realize your situation? Do you know what people will say when you go to them with crazy stories about me? Nobody will think you came down here to the notorious John Lancaster after he'd fired you just because you were such a wonderful nurse that he couldn't do without you. What sort of reputation do you expect to have in Avonmouth? You can go, but you won't go there. Not back to Avonmouth, understand that well. I'll bound you out of the town, you little double-crosser!"
